Preview your job as it will print

You know how annoying it can be when a white logo, or white typematter has been inadvertently set to overprint and therefore does not print, or prints incorrectly, because white elements on overprint are ignored and do not print.

Well, there is an easy way to check that your file will print how you expect, with the correct knockout/overprint.

- 1) Open your Acrobat software (not the free Acrobat reader),
- 2) Open the PDF to be checked making sure that 'Overprint Preview' under 'Advanced' is ticked (this should always be ticked as a default).
- 3) The PDF will now view exactly as it will be printed.
